2 Definitions

The International Classification of Diseases (ICD 10) (WHO 1992) provides definitions of a maternal death as direct, indirect, coincidental and late as follows:

2.1 Maternal Death

A maternal death is the death of a woman while pregnant or within 42 days of termination of pregnancy, irrespective of the duration and the site of the pregnancy, from any cause related to or aggravated by the pregnancy or its management, but not from accidental or incidental causes.

Maternal deaths are subdivided into two groups:

- direct obstetric deaths: direct obstetric deaths are those resulting from obstetric complications of the pregnancy state (pregnancy, labour and the puerperium), from interventions, omissions, incorrect treatment, or from a chain of events resulting from any of the above.
- indirect obstetric deaths: indirect obstetric deaths are those resulting from previous existing disease or disease that developed during pregnancy and which was not due to direct obstetric causes, but which was aggravated by physiologic effects of pregnancy.

2.2 Late Maternal Death

A late maternal death is the death of a woman from direct or indirect causes more than 42 days but less than one year after termination of pregnancy.

3 Managing a Maternal Death

Arrange for the Consultant on duty / on call to meet with the relatives as soon as possible following the event. The Consultant should not offer any information until the full facts of the case have been investigated and are available.

In the event of the baby dying in utero, the following should be taken into consideration:

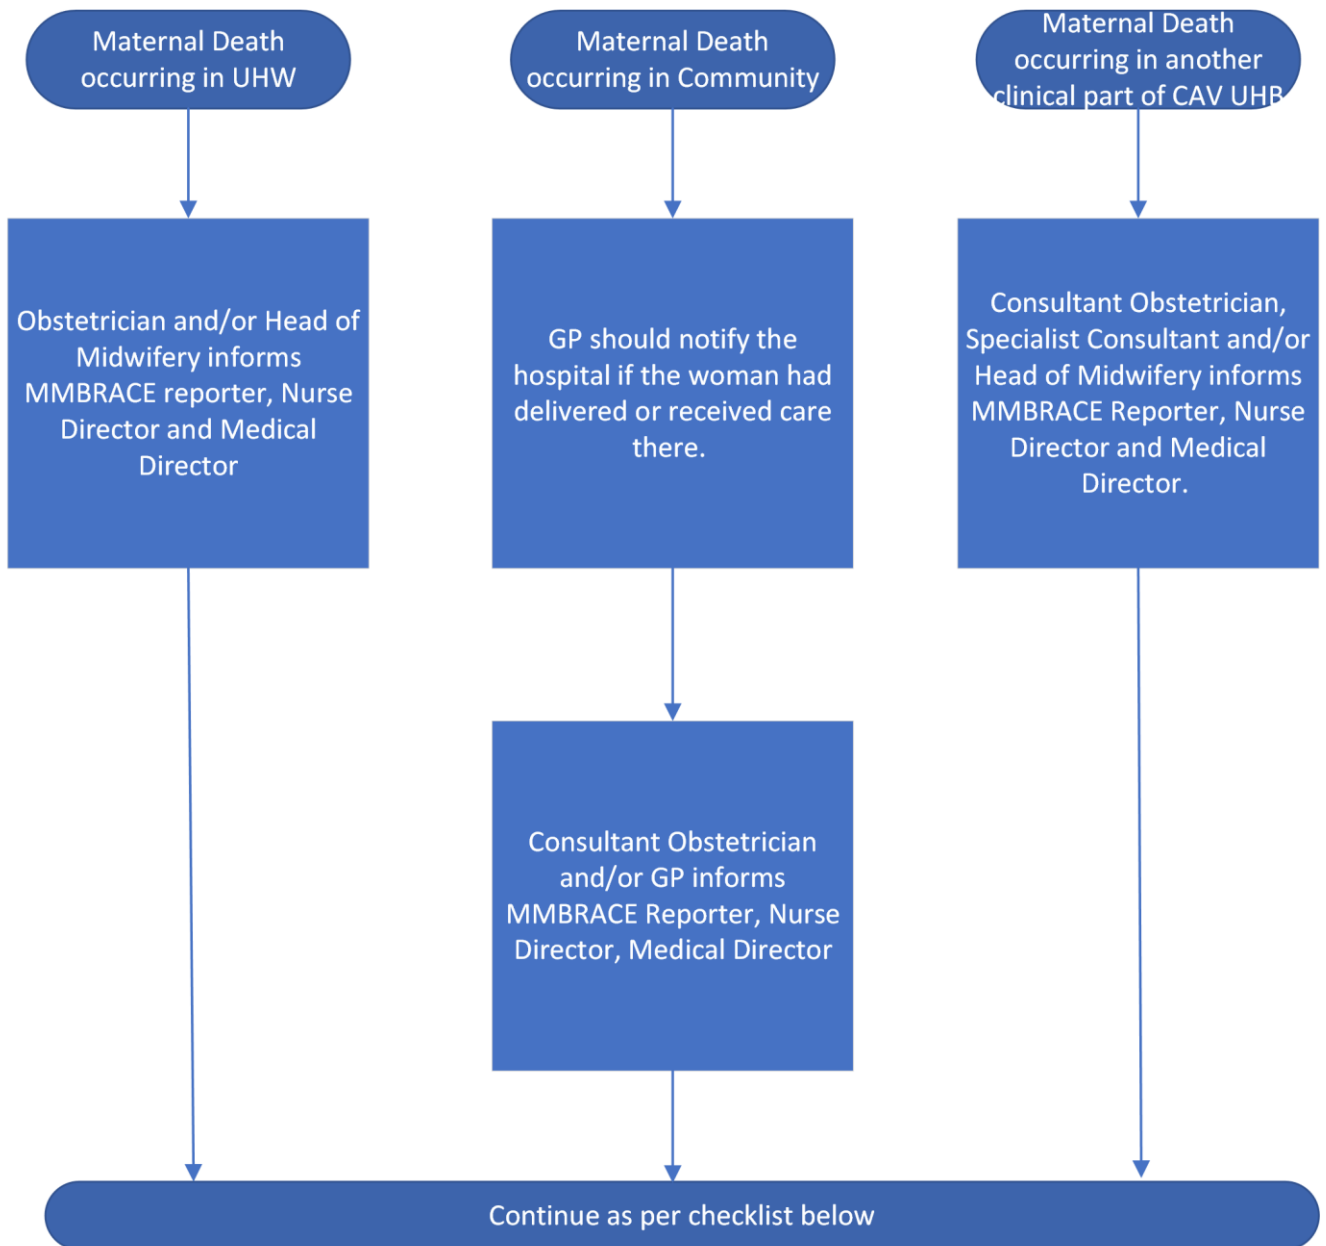

- Section 41 of the Births and Deaths Registration Act 1953 states that the baby is not defined as a stillbirth / IUD in this instance, even when removed from its dead mother at post mortem. This is because the post mortem is being carried out on the mother rather than the baby. Therefore, registration of a baby, in these circumstances, over 24 weeks gestation as a death is not legally required. However, consideration must be shown to family and explanations given.

MBRRACE-UK (2018) (Mothers and Babies: Reducing Risk through Audits and Confidential Enquiries across the UK) triennial report on maternal deaths is based on the collation of information from maternal deaths, and serves to identify where improvements in the provision of care (clinical and non-clinical) may help to inform practice and prevent future deaths. Professionals from primary and secondary sectors contribute to the MBRRACE due to their recognition of a maternal death and prompt notification to the appropriate personnel.

A maternal death can occur in the community or hospital. Where a maternal death is associated with a pregnancy, it is the responsibility of the lead MBRRACE reporter to MBRRACE. When the death is a late death the named lead professional providing care is responsible for informing the Regional Manager, who then initiates an enquiry into the death.
